After Dinner.

A man in Cincinnati, advertising for a situation, says: "Work is not so much an object as good wages."

"The honeymoon is all well enough," said a prudent belle, "but what I want to see beyond that is the promise of a fine harvest moon."

"Which, m dear lady, do you think the merriest place in the world?" "That immediately above the atmosphere that surrounds the earth, I should think." "And why so," "Because I am told that there all bodies lose their gravity?"

"Yes, Job suffered some," said an Illinois deacon, "but he never knew what it was to have his team run away and kill his wife right in the busy season, when hired girls want three dollars a week."

A facetious fellow having unwittingly offended a conceited puppy, the latter told him he was "no gentleman." "Are you a gentleman?" asked the droll one. "Yes, sir," bounced the fop. Then I am very glad I am not," replied the other.

A little girl was told to spell ferment, and give the meaning, with a sentence in which it was used. The following was literally her answer: "F e-r-m-e n-t, a verb, signifying to work; I love to ferment in the garden."

"I say, Sambo, can you answer dis conunderfum? Suppose I gib you a bottle of whisky corked—shut with a cork—how would you get de whisky out widout pullin' de cork or breakin' de bottle?" "I gibs dat up." "Why, push de cork in—yah! yah!"

A man, praising porter, said it was so excellent a beverage, that though taken in great quantities, it always made him fat. "I have seen the time,' said another, "when it made you lean." "When? I should be glad to know," inquired the eulogist. "Why, no longer ago than last night—against a wall."

A lecturer, wishing to explain to a little girl the manner in which a lobster casts its shell when he has outgrown it, said, "What do you do when you have outgrown your clothes? You throw them aside, don't you?" "Oh, no, replied the little one, "we let out the tucks." The lecturer confessed she had the advantage of him there.

At a railway station an old lady said to a very pompous-looking gentleman who was talking about steam communication, "Pray, sir, what is steam?" "Steam, ma'am is, ah!—steam is, ah—ah—steam is steam!" "I knew that chap couldn't tell ye," said a rough-looking fellow standing by, "but steam is a bucket of water in a tremendous perspiration."

The proverbial quickness of Irish wit is illustrated by an anecdote related by Captain A——. While on the Peninsula, during the war, he came across a private belonging to one of the most predatory companies of the Irish Brigade with the lifeless bodies of a goose and hen tied together by the heels, dangling from his musket. "Where did you steal those, you rascal?" he demanded. "Faith, I was marching along wid Color Sergeant Maguire, and the goose—bad cess to it—came out and hissed the American flag." "But the hen, sir, how about the hen?" "It's the hin, is it? The hin bless ye, was in bad company laying eggs for the rebels."

The Home

SELF-SACRIFICE IN THE FAMILY.—The full enjoyment of a happy family life requires the constant exercise of a spirit of self sacrifice on the part of its members. The rule of "the greatest good to the greatest number" must prevail. This requires that each one should give up his individual preferences in all instances where they conflict with the collective wishes of the household, and that he shall be willing to forego them when they are opposed to those of a single member. When self-denial is practiced habitually, with fidelity and purity of purpose, the exercise becomes a never-failing source of happiness to one's self as well as to those in whose favor it is made. It promotes love, harmony, contentment, and conduces to that discipline of character which makes men equal to emergencies. Many of our most cherished recollections are associated with moments in which we have yielded some great personal gratification, or endured pain, that others might not suffer; and we may often trace to such moments of discipline the beginning of some important success or of some salutary course of life.

Thus the foundation of family life is laid in self sacrifice; so the structure must be built upon. Unless the spirit we have described governs the course of the parents, greed, contention and misery will be bred, of necessity. The children cannot be good and happy, and prosper, unless they regard the example set them by their parents. To them, they owe self-sacrifice as a debt; they owe it likewise to their brothers and sisters, on the principle of equality in rights and of fellowship. Tastes and desires will incessantly clash among the several members of the household. The question will always be arising and have to be settled anew every day, unless it has been settled firmly at the beginning, whether the family life shall be joggled or jumping, like the going of a cart on a corduroy road, or uniform and smooth, like the motion of a piece of perfectly adjusted machinery. Each member will be called upon to decide whether he will contribute to make it one or the other.

Each one, from the youngest to the oldest member, has a part in determining the character of the life of the family, and may exert an influence upon the destiny of those who compose it greater than he can easily realize. He can have no higher duty toward this world than to do his part conscientiously and with all his might, and to guard his influence so that it shall always be for good.—Rev Dr. Crooks.

PARENTAL OFFICE.—The office of parent is one of never-ceasing study of what is good for others, of ever-recurring sacrifices. What a mother will endure for her children no one but a mother can tell. No other person, either, can tell of the ineffable pleasure which the enduring brings to her, or of the height of enjoyment she attains in the society or the observation of the children who prove worthy of all that she has done for them. A true mother will consider the temporal object of life fully attained and all her pains and anxieties abundantly rewarded in such enjoyment. The father finds in the thought that he is providing for the comfort of his family the strongest stimulus to activity in his field of work, and is rewardad if he can realize at the end that he has insured them against want, and if he can see them qualified to sustain themselves, morally and materially.

Eight criminals were publicly whipped at Newcastle, Del., on Saturday.

Nov. 26.—A fearful mountain disast r is reported on the great St. Bernard. Eleven persons were buried in the snow, and it is supposed all have perished.

Official reports to the Kansas State Board of Agriculture show that owing to the devastation by grasshoppers at least fifteen thousand people in that State must be assisted during the winter and until another crop is grown.

Brainerd T. Ferris, of West Forty-seventh street, N. Y., was garroted early Saturday evening in Forty-third street, near Fifth avenue, and robbed of his pocket-book, containing $10 in money, checks for $5,250 and other valuable papers. He was assailed by four men, and beaten until insensible.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—In chancery of New Jersey—Between William J. Madison complainant and Mary Tomey defendant, Fi Fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above named Writ of Fieri Facias, to me directed I shall expose for sale by Public Vendue, at the Court House in Newark, on Tuesday the twenty-ninth day of December next, at two o'clock, P. M., all that certain tract or parcel of land and premises situated in the towuship of Bloomfield, Essex County, New Jersey. Beginning at the north east corner of Hickory and Vine streets on the east side of the Morris Canal. Thence (1) northerly along Hickory street one hundred and five feet.—Thence [2] easterly and parallel with Vine street thirty feet. Thence [3] southerly and parallel with Hickory street, one hundred and five feet to Vine Stree. Thence [4] westerly along Vine Street to the beginning.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY.—The Leading Literary Magazine of America—Established 1857—What it offers for 1875.—Vol. XXXV.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL will contribute, during the year, frequent Essays and Poems; and WM. CULLEN BRYANT and HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFILLOW will publish Poems and Papers of special i terest. "MARK TWAIN" will contribute Sketches of Missis-ippi River Life as he used to see it from a Pilot house. BAYARD TAYLOR will write of Life in Weimar and Gotha, and on topics sug ested by his recent residen e in Germany. CHAS. DUDLEY WARNER will furnish during his sojourn in the East, Sketches of Oriental Life and Travel. ROBERT DALE OWEN will continue from time to time, his Chapters of Autobiography. FRANCIS PARKMAN will contribute papers on the Wars of New England and Canada, and picturesque episodes of the old colonial life in Quebec and Montreal. JOHN FISKE whose striking paper on American and Athenian Life attracted much notice, will furnish able papers. In pursuance of a purpose to record important traits of the history of the War of Secession and the events leading to it. The ATLANTIC will follow Mr. Eggleston's "Recollections of a Rebel," with SIX PAPERS ON JOHN BROWN, by F. B SANBORN whose acquaintance with the theories, plans, and performances of the great abolitionist is full exact, and intimate. Five valuable articles of DAVID A. WELLS and EDWARD ATKINSON ON CURRENCY and FINANCE, during 1874, will be succeeded by papers on these interests, from the same authors, in 1875. DR. BROWN-SEQUARD is expected to furnish some popular papers on the branches of medical science in which he is authority. W. D. HOWELLS will contribute a story in several parts, and there will also be A Novel by HENRY JAMES, Jr., and short Stories from J. T. Trowbridge, T. B. Aldrich Rose Terry, William M Baker and other capital story tellers. POETRY will bo well represented by the names of Longfellow, Lowell, Whittier, Holmes, Aldrich, Stedman, Hayne Miss Phelps, Celia Thaxtes. The best American Poetry appears in the Atlantic. The four departments of Literature, Music, Art, and Education will be filled by vigorous editorial articles and reviews.

The Leading Contributors of The Atlantic write for no other Magazine, and the Managers propose to keep it where it always has stood, at the head of American literature. The January number will have Poems by Longfellow, on Charles Sumner. Aldrich, a Christmas Poem, Stoddard, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps; articles by Bayard Taylor, Life in Weimar, Robert Dale Owen, Recent Spiritual Phenomena. Mr. H. James, Jr's Story, and the first of Mr Sanborn's Papers on John Brown. Also a Story by Mark Twain,
